

'SECOND CHILDHOOD' CAPS SEASON'S HITS

Although Don McKay appears to be raising his voice at Suzy Deane he is comforting his "make-believe" fiancé in the senior class play, "Second Childhood."

"There's some mighty strange goings on around here!" exclaims Dave Brennan as General Henry Burbeck, while Ellen Stanley, the General's daughter-in-law, comforts a mysterious little bundle.

THE DRAGON'S ROAR

Vol. 15 No. 8

Narimasu High School, Tokyo, Japan

May 2, 1963

Easter Brings Eggfest

Shirley Keomalu, Narimasu junior, offers an Easter egg to curious tots at the Hosanna-en Orphanage.

A group of Dragon's Roar staffers and Narimasu students recently made their annual visit to the Hosanna-en orphanage. There they were met by Reverend Hideo Yokoyama and several giggling tots who expressed their thanks to Narimasu for aiding the Christian orphanage in having a happier Easter.

Four-hundred pounds of clean usable clothing and food were collected for use by the fifty youthful charges of the home.

Look Ahead!

That's right, students. You are invited to the annual College Night, sponsored jointly by the guidance department and the National Honor Society of Narimasu High School, May 2. In a series of speeches and panel discussions, you will be informed about junior and private colleges, state universities, scholarships, entrance requirements and extra-curricular activities.

NHS Accredited

"Narimasu High School has received the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary School's accreditation for the 1963-64 school year," states Principal Mr. Russell H. Marshall. Notification of the award came early in April.

Besides yearly reports and inventories from schools the Association makes on-the-spot inspections of member schools every two years. Suggestions are offered for improvements in operation and staff matters.

Affiliation with the Association assures Narimasuites their school is following stringent qualifications set forth in As-

For two nights full houses of spectators at Narimasu Elementary School auditorium howled over the spectacle of a scientist who believed he discovered an elixir of youth in the comedy, "Second Childhood." senior class play presented April 1 and 2. A situation of switched identity, a kidnapping, and near life imprisonment lead to a hilarious climax. But at the close of the third act came the surprise as a series of startling events provided relief for the outlandish conflicts.

(Continued on Page 2)

Writers Honored

Four Narimasu students have been awarded placement in Quill and Scroll, International Honorary Society for High School Journalists.

Satomi Arrington, art editor and Fran Loughnan, senior editor, of the yearbook, Sensu, and Victoria Stewart and Tom Zeidler, who served editorial stints on the school newspaper, the Dragon's Roar, were appointed members in early spring.

This honor is accorded students of better than average capabilities who make significant contributions as staff members of school publications.

sociation requirements. Teachers benefit from the "all-clear" message sent to the principal, too. It shows the world they are qualified folk doing well at positions they like. Parents can know Johnny will return to the States and continue advancing to the next grade. Having attended an unqualified school with casual standards often means heartless delay for ambitious students, perhaps even postponement of graduation day.